

Water for South Florida

Freddy the Alligator, here... Protector of the Everglades and a very rad reptile. You know how sometimes we get wet weather to the max, and other times super dry spells? Well, that's why one of my main jobs is making sure we have enough water...and not just for the gang in the swamps, either. Homes, businesses and agriculture are all using more water than ever...Florida's growing for real.

So what? Let me show you. Grab a skateboard and let's jam.
